PRESS RELEASE

Title: My News is Complete

Murray, UT, December 22, 2021. The short dramatic film My News has been completed. The post-production process is over, and the producer will be submitting it to the film festivals soon.

Carl David Blake wrote, produced, and directed My News. The movie stars Hadley Ann Nielsen as Maddy Salt, Alyssa Namazi as Lisa Salt, and Michael Zurn as Jason Salt. Adrian Pacheco, the cinematographer, carefully filmed each scene to capture the essence of the plot, and Jordan D. Brockman, the editor, cut the scenes together brilliantly. In addition, Russ Whitlock, the music composer, put together a phenomenal score that tied the scenes of the movie together very well.

In addition, Adrian shot the movie on an iPhone-12, so it would be eligible for iPhone-only film festivals as well as the others. Several prominent Hollywood directors urged Carl to participate in the iPhone challenge, shooting a movie using a cell phone, and after putting it off for years, he decided to go ahead and do it.

My News is a dramatic short narrative film about Jason Salt, a prominent newscaster of a major news station, who has a breakdown during a commercial break before a little savior appears. My News is a serious story about hope and love, in a pressured world. Furthermore, all the footage for My News (drone, actual movie, behind the scenes, and interviews) were shot in one day, actually under eight hours, as the team pulled together effectively to get the footage completed.

My News is for all audiences, and children over 6 years old will enjoy the plot structure of this short, narrative film.

DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

Many, many years ago, before the dinosaurs roamed the earth, Canon created a new DSLR camera, the famous 5DM2, armed with a full-frame sensor (capable of using professional 35 mm lenses) and clearly ahead of its time. As the word spread throughout the land, past the dark dungeons, the dangerous dragons, and brutal baristas, making lattes with pictures on them, our set photographer picked up this weapon and shot many photos on a movie that I directed, Differences between Men and Women. He also shot full-frame videos, and soon thereafter, some film festivals began creating DSLR-only movie categories. Many famous Hollywood directors asked their cinematographers to film entire full-length features, using just a 5DM2 and surprisingly showed amazing production value.

While the DSLRs have come a long way, another movie-making technology emerged on the scene, the iPhone. Furthermore, the cell phone and tablet engineers began to create better and better movie-making capabilities for these devices, and a new market emerged. When I moved to Austin, Texas, in 2005, only the rich kids were shooting High Definition (HD). None of us regular filmmakers could afford such luxuries; we shot only in Standard Definition (SD).

For those of you who need perspective, here is the progression of video resolution (480-SD, 720-HD, 1080-HD, 4K-Ultra HD, and 8K-Full Ultra HD) during my time as a director. I actually started in 2006, producing my first film, using prosumer movie cameras that only shot 480-SD. Today, cell phones can shoot in 4K! Famous directors in Hollywood began to request from their cinematographers that they use the latest iPhone to film full-length features, and they are surprisingly turning out well.

In addition to advancing technologies, most film festivals began looking for shorter and shorter films, all with a clear 3-act structure. The shorter the films were, the more movies they could put in their festivals. There are many festivals with time limits, some requiring below 15 minutes, 10 minutes, 5 minutes, and they even have some 1-minute film festivals now. So the writing became more challenging as the TRT (Total Running Time) became shorter and shorter. I chose to create a movie that was under 5 minutes.

Over a decade ago, while I lived in Austin, Texas, I had the idea for My News as a series of TV shows; however, it seemed like a good idea to direct the first one, not as a pilot, but as a dramatic, narrative short film. As always, I began to look for a cinematographer who can shoot this movie, and then I pondered my conversations with several fellow directors.

A few of my fellow Hollywood directors laid down the challenge for me several years back to shoot a movie only using an iPhone. I put off this challenge for 5 years, and when the opportunity recently presented itself, I wrote a clear 3-act script. I knew with a few editing revisions we could easily get the movie under 5 minutes. Then, I cast Michael Zurn, a talented local actor, Alyssa Namazi, a gifted First AD and actor, and Hadley Ann Nielsen, a cute, multi-talented, 6-year old girl. My dear friend Norm Zurn let us film in his house, and we gathered the cast and crew for a one-day shoot. Talent attracts talent, and we put this movie together with the help of many skillful moviemakers who made My News a reality.
